Gender and Women’s Studies
Fall 2007

Fall 2007 Program Courses:
"Program" courses are interdisciplinary, taught wholly within the Gender and Women's Studies Program, and carry a GAWS course number. These courses focus on the study of women and gender using specifically feminist theories and methodologies. They explore not only what women have in common but also how different social locations (including class, nationality, ethnicity, race, and sexuality) shape women's varied identities and experiences. They also explore the construction of masculinities and femininities in particular historical, geographical, and cultural contexts.

- GAWS 202-01: Visible Bodies and the Politics of Sexuality (Ms. Kozol)
- GAWS 233-01: Gender, Social Change, Social Movement (Ms. Hasso)
- GAWS 300-01: Feminist Research Methodologies (Ms. Kozol)
- GAWS 406-01: Gender and the State in MENA (Ms. Hasso)

Fall 2007 Discipline-focused Courses:
"Discipline-focused" courses are classes taught by faculty whose primary appointment is in another department or program. They are listed under a course number from the originating department or program. These classes usually address the study of women, gender, and/or sexuality within the context of a particular discipline (such as History or English). Many of them also explore how feminist scholarship is reformulating research questions and analyses within that discipline.

- FYSP 110-01: Black Women and Liberation (Ms. Brooks)
- FYSP 141-01: The Writings of Women in Japanese Culture (Ms. Gay)
- FYSP 146-01: HIV/AIDS in America (Ms. Raimondo)
- FYSP 163-01: She Works Hard for the Money (Ms. John)
- AAST 215-01: African American Women's History (Ms. Brooks)
- RELG 263-01: Roots of Religious Feminism in North America (Ms. Kamitsuka)
- HIST 265-01: American Sexualities (Ms. Estepa)
- HIST 269-01: American Women in the 1950s (Ms. Estepa)
- MHST 318-01: Women Composers: Negotiating a Place (Ms. Macdonald)
- HIST 336-01: Motherhood in the U.S., 1930-present (Ms. Estepa)
- CAST 402-01: Capstone Seminar: Queer Geographies (Ms. Perez)
Fall 2007 Related Courses:
"Related" courses are listed under a course number from the originating department or program. These are courses in which substantive attention is given to issues concerning women, gender, and/or sexuality but such issues may not be the primary focus of the class.

- AAST 101-01: Introduction to the Black Experience (Mr. Millette)
- ANTH 101-01: Introduction to Cultural Anthropology (Mr. Glazier)
- ANTH 101-01: Introduction to Cultural Anthropology (Mr. Pagliai)
- FYSP 132-01: Searching for Utopia: Episodes in American History (Ms. Lasser)
- FYSP 134-01: Crossing Borders: The Mysteries of Identity (Mr. Walker)
- CAST 201-01: Latinas/os in Comparative Perspective (Ms. Perez)
- ENGL 257-01: Late 19th Century Literature (Ms. Zagarell)
- EAST 285-01: Gender, Modernity, and Social Change in Korea (Ms. Kim)
- POLT 317-01: Seminar: The Transformation of the Welfare State (Mr. Howell)
- ENGL 386-01: Narrating the Nation (Ms. Needham)
- SOCI 450-01: Beyond Margins vs. Mainstream (Ms. Dhingra)