Class hrs: Tu/Th 11AM-12:15PM, King 323
Office hrs: W 9:30AM-11:30AM, Rice 305

Course description. This course will explore American politics, society, and culture from the post-Civil War era to the present. We will focus on changes in power relations in American society produced by social and political movements. We will also examine the construction and contestation of gender, race, ethnic, and class. This course will emphasize the use of primary sources, different modes of historical analysis and interpretation, and scholarly controversies.

Required texts.
- Jo Ann Argersinger, The Triangle Fire
- The Autobiography of Malcolm X, As Told to Alex Haley

Additional readings will be posted to the course web site or are available at the library.

Please read all assigned reading carefully and critically, and come to class prepared for discussion. You should take careful notes on the reading and are strongly encouraged to keep a reading journal. Since we will refer to specific examples in the monographs and texts, you must bring the required reading to class, and bring Foner to each session.

Assignments.
- Active, thoughtful, and engaged participation (determines borderline grades). Including discussion, group work, and occasional in-class writing assignments.
- Paper assignment 1 (20%). A 2-pp paper analyzing a document from the Triangle Fire, DUE THU FEB 28 at 11 AM, in class.
- Midterm exam (20%). Take-home, covering all reading and in-class material.
  - DISTRIBUTED in class on THU MAR 14
  - DUE by email to petrulis@oberlin.edu, THU MAR 21 at 12:15 PM
- Paper assignment 2 (20%). A 2-pp paper analyzing a magazine advertisement (1945-73), DUE THU APR 25 at 11 AM, in class.
- Final exam (40%). Take-home, covering all reading and in-class material.
  - DISTRIBUTED in class on TUE MAY 7
  - DUE by email to petrulis@oberlin.edu, WED MAY 15 at 2:00 PM

Learning objectives.
- Hone reading skills, including argument identification and strategic reading
- Navigate scholarly controversies and formulate responses
- Analyze and contextualize primary sources; use primary sources in an original research paper
- Deploy secondary sources as support, not summary
Learning objectives, continued.

- Write concise, well-crafted essays that construct an original argument, supported by primary source evidence and secondary source analysis
- Contribute to the community of the classroom through discussion, group work, and writing
- Engage as citizens with contemporary and historical issues

Additional details.

- Academic honesty. Plagiarism, cheating, and other forms of academic dishonesty are unacceptable, and easy to avoid. Familiarize yourself with Oberlin’s Honor Code, and talk to me to clear up any questions; ignorance is no excuse. Per Oberlin requirements, I will refer all suspected academic dishonesty to the appropriate dean. Offenders will receive a zero on the assignment and an F in the class.
- Accommodations. Please let me know about any issues or accommodations (activities, disability, religious, etc) during the first two weeks of class.
- Attendance. You are expected to attend every class session. You can miss two sessions for any reason – illness, job interview, hamster death, lassitude – and will make up any in-class assignments you miss. Each additional unexcused absence will drop your overall grade by 1/3 grade per absence. (Use your absences wisely.) You must inform me in a timely way to request an excused absence, including religious holidays or extended/severe illness (which requires a note from the dean’s office).
- Communicating with the professor. Office hours are Wednesday, 9:30 AM to 11:30 AM. I am also available to chat immediately after class on Tuesdays. I respond to emails as quickly as possible, and at least once a day during the week. I do not check email regularly on weekends, vacations, or holidays. Email is business correspondence, and should be composed accordingly.
- Drafts. I am happy to meet with you at any stage of the paper writing process, and will review drafts until one week before the paper due date. I also encourage you to consult with peers and the Writing Center early and often! I will not answer substantial paper questions the day before the paper is due, so plan ahead.
- Due dates. Papers are due at the beginning of class; once class has started, a paper will be considered late. Late papers will be penalized 1/3 of a grade per day.
- Sources. You may only use academic secondary sources, and may not use Wikipedia or similar sources in your work. Please consult with me if you have questions about a source.
- Technology. There is no “connecting” in class: no phone calls, texts, email or other internet use, or the like. The first infraction will cost 5 percentage points from your overall grade; the second costs an additional 10 percentage points; and so on. If you want to use a computer in class, you must sign a computer “honor code.”

Any other issues will be discussed in class; important communication will be posted on the course web site. Please check it regularly.
