Dear Parents,

Welcome to another exciting year at Oberlin College and Conservatory! We are eagerly awaiting the arrival of your student and kicking off the new school year!

The Wilder Bowl was developed as a communication tool for parents to stay connected to the Oberlin community. You will receive the e-newsletter quarterly which will include campus updates. Below, we compiled information pertinent to the start of the new semester.

For more information, the Oberlin Parents webpage was designed to provide useful information about the college and conservatory's programs, resources, policies, and procedures.

Academic Calendar
Oberlin offers a winter term of four weeks in January to encourage and enable students to discover the value of self-education. Students can devise and pursue projects that are academic, career-related, internship, international, performance, research or other self-designed opportunities. The Office of Winter Term’s website provides details about selecting a project, deadlines for applying to group projects and a list of campus offices with helpful resources.

President Krislov attends NYT Higher Education Leaders Forum

President Krislov participated in the recent New York Times Higher Education Leaders Forum and was a panelist in the "Diversity on Campus: Inclusion and Expression" session. The session was broadcast live online, and an archived video was uploaded by the New York Times to its Facebook page.
